The members discussed and agreed on what questions that the Chairman and other members in turn should put to each candidate.

A short deliberation after each candidate had been interviewed and after the last candidate is seen then a secret ballot should be taken.

Candidates were interviewed by the Council separately with the Chairman and other members in turn putting the questions as agreed. One candidate was unable to attend in person but the Clerk read out the written response received by email to the agreed questions (a draft of the questions had been circulated beforehand).

A final discussion took place after all 7 interviews had taken place followed by a ballot.
